

ABSTRACT

This invention provides an adaptive transcoder that modifies a data stream for transmission over variable bandwidth networks and to devices having varying processing capabilities in accordance with client desired bit rates. In order to modify the bit rate of a data stream, in a preferred embodiment, certain frames of the data stream are replaced with Pseudo-P frames according with the results of frame ranking techniques.